Claims 20-27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claim 20, lines 2 & 3, there is no antecedent for the "receiver".

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 20 & 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Summers et al 5,937,841 in view of Hickman 2,394,856.

Summers shows a bow string release strap having a first end having a receiver 16 with a pin to be received in holes 14 in the second end. However, when the ends are disengaged, they become loosely separated, so it may be difficult for a user to place the strap on the wrist and fasten the ends. Hickman shows that a wrist strap may include a first end 10, second end 12, and a member 21 extending between the ends to maintain the ends in a semi-closed position when they are disengaged, so it is easier to re-fasten the ends. One would recognize that this extension member would be useful with the wrist strap of Summers to assist one in fastening the ends about the wrist. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide the wrist strap of Summers with the connector of Hickman.

Claims 1-19 are allowed.

Claims 22-27 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
